What's New In ScreenCam Protector?

ScreenCam Protector is a small application that protects you from the danger that one of your chat buddies uses a screencam while video-chatting with you to save the video data as a video clip and uploads this clip on the internet or gives it to somebody else. Description: To help protect against internet-based threats, the following behavior has been observed:* When you are online, the screencam will make video capture whenever the computer detects that you are using your webcam. This may be at any time such as when you use your webcam to take pictures in your webcam app, or when you are sending video messages such as when you are using the on-screen keyboard, or during video conversations. Description: Microsoft released an updated Skype software called Skype 4.3. The new version of the Skype includes two types of features – chat room functionality and voice calls to mobile phones. Description: E-mail Server (Greasemonkey Mod) by google is an excellent extension for Mozilla Firefox. The extension allows users to easily send and receive e-mail from within the browser. By using this extension, the user can enjoy the benefits of Gmail as a separate, stand-alone application without having to download the Gmail client. All of the necessary Google services are enabled within the browser itself, including Google Chat, Contacts, Labs, and Calendar. Other Gmail-specific features, such as the Chat and Contacts labs, are added as needed. Description: Coda is a social network that brings together your best friends and the friends of your friends. Once you join the network, you start collecting friends: no spam emails, no endless emailing back and forth, just real friends in your address book. Coda is a free social network that can be used on a desktop, laptop, or a mobile device. The free version of Coda does not allow file transfers. To transfer files, you must upgrade to a paid version. Description: The Windows Live Messenger by Microsoft was available as a client in the personal and professional segment. The online messengers support chat messages, voice, image and video clips and allows you to upload these files to the web. Description: The aim of this modification is to prevent all, or a specified group of users from logging into an online gaming server via a machine or browser to create a bot (a networked program that impersonates a player). The goal of this modification is to prevent all, or a specified group of users from logging into an online gaming server via a machine or browser to create a bot (a networked program that impersonates a player). Description: The Firefox browser has become popular due to its ability to function as an effective and useful browser for all users, including those with little or no computer skills. However, users also have concerns about online privacy and information security. #174 – Download Now #175 – Download Now #
