Get rid of the tedious procedure of logging into your web application to change your MySQL passwords. This amazing application automatically generates a new password, saving you lots of time and effort.

Application: LogicMan is a versatile application that allows you to convert SQL Server database objects to SQL in less than a minute. What this feature allows you to do is to analyze databases, tables, stored procedures and views to determine which of them could be converted into SQL. The utility then goes ahead to run scripts against the object to make it compatible with SQL. After the object is converted, you can easily export the data as SQL statements, SQL scripts or SDF files, and save it as text or

XML. Moreover, you can use it to turn an existing SQL query into a dynamic table, to enable you to pull data from multiple tables at once, and to automate repetitive database processes. In addition to standard functions, LogicMan also boasts of an automated restore functionality that will automatically restore databases and tables into their original state, as well as a scheduling function that will allow you to create SQL scripts that run on specified times. Key features of the application:

- Automatically generates a new password
- Access SQL Server databases, tables, stored procedures and views
- Automatically generates a backup of databases
- Automatically imports database backup files into SQL Server
- Automatically saves the generated SQL code as a text file, SDF file or an XML document
